Forêt Debussy

Drama

Deep in the barren mountains, a mother and a daughter live an isolated quiet life.

The Daughter looks lean and fragile. She seems unreactive toward her surroundings, confining herself in her own wretched world. The Mother is like a guardian angel who always protects her and takes care of everything. Before living in seclusion, The Daughter was a pianist who lost her husband and son. The Mother decided to take her away and hid her in the mountains where no one could ever find them, believing it is the only possible way for her daughter to survive. Nevertheless, they have to face nothing but themselves ever since, as well as to confront the endless forest...

Himalaya: Ladder to Paradise

Documentary

The documentary tells about the temple, the monk, the mountain and these climbers. The name, Himalaya Ladder to Paradise, came from the white ladders painting on the rocks of Tibetan Plateau.

The Tibetan believe that souls could reach the Holy Land through these ladders. Most people regard the top of Mount Everest as their destination of adventure. In this point, the young mountain guides are just like the role of ladders which help them climbing to the top. However, for the young mountain guides themselves, climbing is only the beginning to become a real man...

Old Stone

Thriller

A man falls down the stairs, but instead of helping him, the bystanders just take photos with their phones. Lao Shi is a taxi driver and he's fighting for justice in the darkest recesses of Chinese society. The man who pushed him got into his taxi drunk not so very long ago, grabbed the steering wheel and caused an accident.

The victim of the crash has been in a coma ever since, and because his family is destitute, Lao Shi is paying the hospital bills.

The insurance company is refusing to cover the costs because the taxi driver left the scene of the accident with the injured man because no help was in sight. Now Lao Shi needs the testimony of his passenger, who angrily refuses to cooperate.

The symbolism of the protagonist's name, which means "old stone", is clear: in a society of blinkered people only concerned with their own future, the taxi driver's desire to help makes him seem as if he's from another era. On his quest to find who's responsible for his plight, the victim ends up becoming a perpetrator himself, and Lao Shi gradually morphs into a real horror film.

Lulu the Movie

Comedy

The movie opens with Lulu arriving in Singapore from her hometown in China looking for her one true love that she met on social media. However, her dream lover turns out to be the complete opposite of what she imagines him to be. Not wanting to 'lose face' to her friends back in China, she decides to stay in Singapore and make something of herself.

We follow her adventures of job-hopping, learning English and being discovered by the TV station. She gets the opportunity to front an English fashion program despite having 'unique' fashion sense and even more unique command of the English language. She refuses to conform to normal standards of what a fashion host is supposed to dress or sound like but audiences love her unconventional way of hosting and her show becomes top-rated, even garnering international attention. Her real adventures begin as she embarks on her journey around the world (from London to Shanghai) as a bona fide fashionista. Throughout her journey, although she meets with mockery, discrimination and tough times, Lulu refuses to give up or compromise. A strong message that comes across in the movie is that one can achieve success by staying true to oneself and living life on one's own terms.

I Love That Crazy Little Thing

Romance, Drama

Film editor Jiang dreams of becoming a director, but those dreams turn into a nightmare when his assistant, Meng, splices an unlicensed song into the soundtrack of a soon-to-be premiered movie. Not that Jiang's personal life is more successful, his girlfriend, Luo, on the verge of breaking off their relationship.

Thus begins Jiang's quest for Ouyang, the song's composer and copyright holder. No easy task, as Ouyang has left Beijing to become a monk in China's remote northwest. The journey undertaken by Jiang and Meng is full of comedic and dangerous twists and turns, including travel by racecar and hot air balloon. At one point they're stranded in the beautiful but forbidding Alashan Desert, finally making it to Ouyang's temple only to discover his supposed monkhood was merely a publicity stunt. Returning to Beijing and fired from his job, Jiang is still determined to pursue his ambitions -- and ex-girlfriend Luo. As fate would have it, Luo has also come to a new understanding of her ex and the two unexpectedly reconnect in Hawaii, where they finally meet the elusive Ouyang. The encounter leads to a denouement at the Haleakala Volcano that fulfills Jiang's romantic, professional, and creative dreams.

Happy Dorm

Drama, Comedy, Romance

Cheer WANG, a handsome and passionate young man, just started university. As a freshman, he finally found an excuse to leave home and move into the "Dorm." He encountered numerous ups and downs, along with his three other roommates: Manny, Konan, and Da-Ren, each of them relishing the crazy yet happy life at the dorm. Moreover, they even called their dorm, # 729: the happiest place on earth. One day, the boys' dorm was accused of being too messy, and all the residents there were about to get punished because of this lame excuse. WANG thought: This was so unjustified! Who knows, maybe girls' dorm is even messier, but how could they get away with this? Luckily, WANG got the brilliant idea: boys should stick together and create some havoc in the girls' dorm so those girls can get punished, too! As a result, a fierce battle between the boy's dorm and the girl's dorm commenced! During a tense moment of this epic battle, both rivals heard the news: the principal was about to tear all the dorms down. Moreover, rumor had it there was a dishonest land developer, who wanted to exploit that property, behind everything. WANG then realized the pivotal moment of unity has come! Girls and boys all needed to get together to stop this conspiracy and save their dorms, as well as preserving all their happy memory within. How could they do? What is the meaning of family and friendship? Can we all make the right decision and never look back?

Let's Eat

Comedy

Ah Yong Café, a reputable cafe famous for its Hainanese Chicken Rice, has been a popular eatery since the 80's. While business now is nowhere near its heydays, it still attracts a steady flow of regular customers. Showing signs of dementia, restaurant owner Ah Yong (Lo Hoi Pang) decides to retire, he entrusts the café to his apprentice cum head Chef Dai Hung (Chapman To) and his daughter Rosemary (Aimee Chan), who has just returned from Europe.

Rosemary is adamant about revolutionizing Ah Yong Café to cater to a younger crowd and has no qualms about using lower-grade ingredients to bring costs down. This infuriates Dai Hung, a principled chef who only serves food made from the freshest ingredients and focuses on keeping the tradition of the café. The two soon becomes loggerheads as they disapprove of each other's style of working. Initially, the revamped Ah Yong Café bustles with business with the newly introduced menu and gimmicks, however, the lack-lustre food soon causes the business to suffer and draw flakes from customers and critics. One particular harsh review from the infamous but anonymous food blogger Michelin caused the dwindling business to suffer even further. The regular customers stop patronizing the café and the new customers are turned off. Indignant and determined to save the reputation of Ah Yong Café and revive its business, Rosemary decides to enter a cooking competition organized by a regional television channel. In the face of predicament, Dai Hung and Rosemary make up and join forces to create a dish for the competition. Rosemary finally understands the true meaning of good food and love, yet, Dai Hung goes missing on the day of the competition...

Chronicles of the Ghostly Tribe

Fantasy, Adventure, Action

Hu Bayi would never know who he was, if he hadn't been to Kunlun Mountains.

The story started on a construction site in Tanggula Mountains in 1979. Workers discovered a cavern, in which huge skeletons of ancient creatures were buried. A sudden explosion in the cavern brought an investigating group of volunteer soldiers inside, hoping to find out the truth. Hu Bayi was also in this group together with a nurse Yang Ping, on whom Hu Bayi had a secret crush. They crawled across a cave covered with ice, inside which large ancient animals were buried. They marched across the snow mountaintops of Kunlun Mountains. They encountered and fought with a swarm of firebats, which burnt a few soldiers to the ground. The gunshots triggered a huge avalanche that forced Hu Bayi and his team jumped into an ice crack on the ground. They slid into the underground again and accidentally broke into a temple established by an alien civilization- the Demon Pagoda. Inside the Demon Pagoda, Hu Bayi's life was threatened and he nearly died of a bite of a firebat along the way of escaping. He was deadly cursed because of the bite and that was just a beginning. He returned to Beijing as the only survivor. But, he found himself protected by a secret organization as soon as he was back. Years later, he received a message that Yang Ping was back. He decided to find her in the desert as well as the truth of her resurrection.

But everything was out of his control. He encountered manbears, a kind of ancient monsters, in the desert. After a few battles, Hu Bayi came to realize that Yang Ping was possessed by the Queen of Jingjue City, who was also the lord of Demon Pagoda. After a struggle inside, he shot his beloved girl to death.

All the manbears escaped after the Yang Ping's death. The team survived after the last battle, leaving for the next destination. The story, however, was still going on. A huge monster appeared behind the group of people, following silently. The shadow of Jingjue City loomed up in the distance waiting for their coming.

Ip Man 3

Action, Drama

At the end of the 1950's, finally settled into a stable life, during his daily trip to take his young son to and from school, Ip Man meets another father Cheung Tin-chi; it so happens that Cheung is a fellow Wing Chun practitioner. Through their infrequent contact, the two fathers develop an interesting relationship. Unexpectedly, gangsters led by Sang are trying to take over properties in the neighborhood and Ip Man decides to lead his students to guard the neighborhood!

Ip Man's conflict with the gangsters becomes heated and he discovers that the boss behind the takeover is the foreigner Frank. Because Frank colludes with an English police superintendent, even the police inspector Fat Ball cannot do much to help. Undeterred, Ip Man stays to guard the neighborhood. Unexpectedly, Sang abducts the elementary school students to threaten the community and both Ip Man and Tin-chi's sons are taken. Ip Man arrives in time, and with Tin-chi's help, the Wing Chun duo save the children successfully! The gangsters' misdeeds are exposed in the media and the takeover of the neighborhood ends. Unfortunately, tragedy hits Ip Man's family and he realizes that even though he is successful in saving the neighborhood, he has neglected his own family. He decides to stay with his wife full time and leave other matters behind; troubles, however, do not leave him alone. Frank sends the Muay Thai Champion to attack Ip Man, disrupting his time with his family and threatens even his wife's safety. Ip Man is forced to confront Frank. After a fierce fight between Chinese and Western fighting styles, Ip Man earns Frank's respect!

Troubles keep coming. Tin-chi openly challenges Ip Man's authority and tries to make a name for himself by claiming to be 'authentic Wing Chun.' He openly challenges Ip Man into a fight! Between career and family, Ip Man chooses the latter and fulfils his promise to dance with Wing-sing. He gives up his reputation and status to be a real man.

Finally, with the encouragement from and arrangement by his wife, for himself and his family, Ip Man fights with Tin-Chi. Through this fight, he lets Tin-chi know that life belongs to oneself but not only to oneself. When Tin-chi is chasing after his ideals, he is effecting the life of his son. Like Ip Man, his life belongs to himself, to Wing-sing, to his sons and even to the martial arts.

I am Somebody

Comedy, Romance

In the middle of China, there’s a town called Hengdian. In this town, there is a movie lot that is bigger than the studios of Universal and Paramount put together. This is the Hengdian World Studios, aka “Hollywood of the East”.

It attracts production teams from all over the world, and as a result, creates a new label in the Chinese population – “Hengpiao”, which literally means the “Hengdian Nomads”. These people are mostly extras on the movie set, and they’re usually perceived as those who dream of becoming movie stars. Until in August, 2012, director Derek Yee met some of the extras during a set visit, and he was touched by their live stories. "I'm Somebody" is inspired by these extras, and for once they get to be the leads.

The story evolves around several young people chasing their dreams in Hengdian. They have no knowledge in moviemaking, and their bumbling misadventures turn out to be valuable lessons for their lives. Director Yee wishes this film could inspire countless "nomads" from all walks of life. The obstacles that we're facing would become the greatest gifts of our lives.
