

Reviews

Jane's Journey

Human meets Nature... in harmony

One of the more inspiring, entertaining, educational and motivational movies I have watched in a very long time. This is not just a movie you want to share for entertainment value, this is a precious message you want to give to all you love especially to the younger generation. It is not enough to learn to live in harmony with each other, it is equally important to learn to live in harmony with our natural environment.

Watching Jane's Journey has reaffirmed to me that change can happen and be made through the efforts of one person. We as individuals are the beginnings of that change, what we do now or how we think starts this chain reaction of awareness. We get one chance, there are no "do overs" in this life or for the planet we live in and abuse daily. Jane Goodall instills inspiration as a woman, scientist, and environmentalist.

Jane's Journey

Director: Lorenz Knauer

Cast: Jane Goodall, and appearances by Angelina Jolie, Pierce Brosnan, Kofi Annan, Jane's son Hugo Eric van Lawick

Language: English Subtitle: Traditional Chinese (available)

Run Time: 107 min (Theatrical) / Rating: G-MPAA

Theatrical Release: Germany, USA

Inflight Release: November 2011 / Territories: Worldwide excluding Taiwan, USA, Canada

Esther

"Touching"

This movie is a very good educational and inspirational documentary. It can be considered as conservation education as well as general education to the youth. Jane's enthusiasm and commitment to the conservation of nature is very impressive. I think everyone who has seen this movie will agree with her that the balance of nature is disturbed and we are destroying our beautiful planet. We have to live peace and harmony with each other and the nature of the world. Most important is we have the responsibility to do what we can for a better world.

Edwin

The personal and family life added a lot more dimensions to the great work accomplished by our celebrated conservationist Jane Goodall. I can see the young woman at heart with the same passion - "I have to do something. I have to." - that brought her from England to Africa. Great story about this courageous woman, wife, and mother.

Eric

"Jane Goodall" is a friend of chimpanzee. More importantly, she's a pioneer of teaching our next generation how important it is to protect the globe. She also cares about the social and environmental problem. It is time for us to stop and think what we can do to save the globe.

an encore experience