

Reviews Ghosted

Shawshank Redemption Meets Midnight Express

One of the more intriguing prison movies I have watched in my life. Not usually a fan of this genre, Ghosted had me engrossed from the beginning to the very unexpected end. A thought provoking story that left me questioning myself on the choices I would make if I were in the same situation. Great story with great performances.

A gripping and dramatic film of prison life and the different roles played out in prison. Jack is a model prisoner who keeps his head down trying to finishing up his prison term uneventfully, until Paul a new prisoner comes along. Ghosted lets you feel and understand what each character is about and what they are going through. Very strong performances with a shocking and horrific climax that evokes mixed emotions of was it right or brutally wrong mix of fate?

Jovita

Esther

Unexpected

Well cast and good acting with an unexpected ending in this special prison movie.

Edwin

The performance of both John Lynch (as Jack, the jailed father) and Craig Parkinson (as Baron, the power-hungry thug) have contributed to the intensity of their rivalry in the prison. Though much of the drama behind bars (as in HBO's Oz) one would expect is still there, the surprising twist at the very end is handled well. Martin Compston (as the timid Paul) had also done a great job for the suspiciously somewhat naive character.

Jackie

Eric

A love, protection friendship at the beginning in jail dramatically turns to sudden change. Very sad story.

GHOSTED

Director: Craig Viveiros

Cast: John Lynch, David Schofield, Martin Compston, Craig Parkinson, Art Malik, Amanda Abbington

Language: English Subtitle: Traditional Chinese

Run Time: 102 min (Theatrical) / Rating: UK R-18 / MPAA- NC-17

Theatrical Release: UK June 2011

Territories: Worldwide except North America